APOKRISIS: Suppressor Ownership & Purchase Procedure

Overview

Suppressors are classified as firearms under the National Firearms Act (NFA) and are regulated as defense articles. The following procedures are established by APOKRISIS in Horn Lake, MS, to ensure a safe, legal, and transparent buying process for all customers. As of January 1, 2026, the federal NFA transfer tax has been eliminated. While the financial barrier has been removed, all federal registration, background check requirements, and ATF approval processes remain strictly in effect.

Core Policies ("Hard Lines")

- HARD LINE 1: FFL/SOT Dealer Requirement. You must purchase through a Federal Firearms Licensee (FFL) with Special Occupational Taxpayer (SOT) status. Suppressors cannot be mailed directly to a consumer. Any claim that a suppressor can be shipped to your home is fraudulent and illegal.

- HARD LINE 2: Point-of-Purchase Paperwork. All legal documentation must be completed with the FFL who facilitates the final transfer. FFL-to-FFL transfers are permitted across state lines, but the final transfer to the consumer must be executed by an FFL in the customer's state of residence.
- HARD LINE 3: Risk and Inventory Management. Because local dealers do not typically maintain massive stockpiles of NFA inventory, they must order specific units based on customer selection. Consequently, FFLs will often require a deposit to mitigate the risk of holding non-refundable NFA inventory.
- HARD LINE 4: Purpose of Funds. Payments made to APOKRISIS serve as a deposit for services rendered, including consulting, locating, and facilitating the transfer of your suppressor. This deposit is non-refundable. If a customer is found to be legally ineligible to purchase the suppressor at the time of transfer, these funds cover the administrative time and costs incurred by the FFL.

- HARD LINE 5: Individual vs. Trust. You may purchase as an individual; a trust is not required. While a trust remains an option for those interested in estate planning or shared possession, individual registration is a simpler, faster alternative.
- HARD LINE 6: Physical Verification. The FFL cannot submit an application until the specific unit is in their possession. This ensures that the suppressor you purchase is the exact unit you inspect, hold, and register at the point of sale.

- 4. Application: Upon notification of arrival, schedule an appointment with your FFL to submit your fingerprints and ATF Form 4.
- 5. ATF Review: Your application will undergo an internal ATF review and FBI background check. While processing times have improved dramatically in 2026, wait times vary by individual.
- 6. Approval & Transfer: Upon ATF approval, return to your FFL to complete the final transaction. The remaining balance will be paid via our website. APOKRISIS will cover your transfer fees to the dealer using your initial deposit.
- 7. Registration: Your suppressor is registered in your name in the National Firearms Registration and Transfer Record (NFRTR). This registration is permanent. Should the item be lost or stolen, you must notify local law enforcement and the ATF immediately through your FFL to protect yourself from liability.

Disclaimer: Firearms regulations are complex and subject to change. Always verify your specific situation with your local FFL/SOT or an ATF Industry Operations investigator.
